CASSANDRA PARRAN HOUSE WITH DECORATED BARGE BOARD
(Second Half 19th Century)
Mackall
Private

This unusual two story frame house measures four bays wide by two bays deep. The large gable-roofed dwelling faces southwest. The facade's two central bays project in a rectangular block under a cross gable roof. A hip-roofed porch covers the facade. This side's right-hand bay on the main body of the house contains the entrance. An interior brick chimney heats the northwest gable end.

This house is the only example of its type in Calvert County. The shape resembles side-hall, double-parlor houses from the first half of the 19th century, but the trim and facade tower point toward Victorian development.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This unusual two-story frame house measures four bays wide by two bays deep. The large gable-roofed dwelling faces southwest. The facade's two central bays project in a rectangular block under a cross-gable roof. A hip-roofed porch covers the facade. This side's right-hand bay on the main body of the house contains the entrance. An interior brick chimney heats the norwest gable end.

Six over six windows light the house. A lunette lights the cross-gable. Two four over four windows light either gable end of the attic. The main six-panel door is topped by a transom.

A Gothic-inspired wave-patterned bargeboard decorates all gable ends. Architraves display a narrow rolled edge. Corrugated sheet metal covers the roof. Wide German siding sheathes the walls. The house stands on a brick foundation pierced by small ventilation slits.

A small frame outbuilding and frame barn are located north of the house.
